To Whom It May Concern,

We have successfully used Thomas Fraps for our corporate events in Munich and New York since 2011.

Thomas is extremely professional and is quick to understand our business and technology. He also offers ideas and advice on how to present key messages to the audience and make the event flow smoothly.

As a fake expert, Thomas is credible and firm. The transition from a boring expert to a lively entertainer is rather surprising, but performed seamlessly and a very memorable moment for an audience. During his act he managed to captivate a room full of 200 men with his humour and tricks. Our international delegates were always eager to return to the conference room after breaks to avoid missing one of his performances as an MC.

In short, Thomas is a great partner to work with. He listens to the brief, advises as necessary and works to make the event a success. I have no hesitation in recommending Thomas and his surprising skillset as an illusionist and fake expert for any event.
